Learning outcomes

- gain an understanding of the perception of death for a child or a young person with learning difficulties and Autistic Spectrum Disorders
- gain an understanding of theories of loss and mourning in relation to children or young people with learning difficulties and Autistic Spectrum Disorders
- develop greater confidence in providing support and communication about death with children or young people with learning difficulties and Autistic Spectrum Disorders
- identify the importance of, and gain skills in, helping children with learning difficulties and Autistic Spectrum Disorders find ways to express themselves and their feelings
- identify an awareness of our own needs as professional carers and explore ways to support ourselves, and our colleagues
- gain information about Child Bereavement UK, other similar support organisations and resources available.

This has been useful in extending my knowledge and has given much food for thought including bereavement support plans for schools.

Educational Psychologist

Our training aims to help professionals to support children, young people, parents and families through all types of bereavement. We can also arrange bespoke training or consultancy on any type of bereavement at a time and location to suit your needs.
