

Bereavement training for professionals

When a twin dies - supporting parents and families

Explore the impact that the death of a twin (or multiple) can have on a family, drawing on current research and learning from the neonatal butterfly project.

21 January 2019

Birmingham, Reduced to £45
Thanks to the support of Freddie's Wish

www.childbereavementuk.org | 01494 568909

This workshop will increase and embed the knowledge and understanding of professionals, to ensure a high quality of care and support for parents in the future.

Learning outcomes

- gain an understanding of what parents may need when they are faced with the death of their twin (or multiple)
- explore and develop self-awareness in relation to loss, grief and bereavement
- recognise physical and emotional reactions to grief
- be aware of current guidelines, research and initiatives around the death of a twin, and baby loss in general
- consider the way we communicate and support families following the death of a twin
- explore and consider ways to support ourselves and our colleagues
- gain information about Child Bereavement UK and other support organisations and resources available.

This study day has given me the opportunity to explore issues surrounding twin death. Sharing and better understanding grief and coping strategies, improving communication skills and what I can offer to parents and their families will be invaluable in the future.

Neonatal/Paediatric Registrar

Our training aims to help professionals to support children, young people, parents and families through all types of bereavement. We can also arrange bespoke training or consultancy on any type of bereavement at a time and location to suit your needs.

0800 02 888 40 www.childbereavementuk.org